Shaping futures with Northumberland Skills

We can support your recruitment strategy with a variety of apprenticeship training programmes for new or existing members of your team.

Whether you are looking to recruit a teaching assistant, an office manager or a trainee chef; we can help you to find and recruit team members to boost your team across your school or academy.

As well as their role in your organisation on a day-to-day basis, your apprentices will gain the knowledge and accredited qualifications they need to add value and succeed.

Apprenticeship training programmes available from Northumberland Skills

Our trained and experienced lecturers and assessors bring a wealth of knowledge to instil skills and confidence into individuals undertaking our apprenticeship training programmes.

We offer training programmes to support your curriculum team recruitment, such as childcare and education apprenticeships, which cover roles such as teaching assistants or early years educators.

We can also support your recruitment needs in the kitchen with apprentice chef training, or in the office and business support side of the organisation via a wide variety of professional services apprenticeships, such as business administrator roles or office managers.

Explore our apprenticeship training programmes on the opposite page and contact Lyndsay James in the apprenticeships team on apprenticeships@northumberland.gov.uk or by calling 01670 622 099 for further details.

"I've always been interested in healthy lifestyles and helping others, and I can't wait to take on more responsibility once I've found my feet.

I love putting my new knowledge into practice in the workplace and I'm proud of the difference I'm making to so many lives through health and wellbeing initiatives. Plus, everyone is so supportive - my manager listens to my ideas and I have felt part of the team since day one."

Niamh Macintyre,
Level 3 Health and Wellbeing Apprentice.
